The foregoing tabulated exhibits present a condensed summary of the official work of this office. The consolidated table on page 15 shows the steady increase of the work, both as to the number of accounts examined and registered and the amount involved in the settlements made. In the year 1886 it will be seen that we examined and adjusted 29,040 accounts, aggregating in amount the sum of $1,815,693,483.19. This was increased in 1887 by 2,275 accounts, and in the total amount involved, $522,077,125.70. The amount embracing receipts and disbursements reached during the fiscal year $2,337,770,608.89. But in order to comprehend the labor of the office, to this tabulated statement of work must be added 484 judiciary and emolument accounts registered and referred, 11,501 letters written and acknowledged, 1,691 requisitions answered, 4,019 powers of attorney examined, entered, and referred, 990 warehouse and bond accounts audited, amounting to $117,883,417,220, but are not included in the total amount representing receipts and disbursements.

I respectfully call attention to the fact that the office has received 1,393 more accounts in 1887 than in 1886, and not only transacted all the current business of the year, but reduced the number of accounts on hand compared with last year 882. In 1886 we transacted all the current business of the year and reduced the number of accounts on hand compared with the previous year 379. (In 1887 we did as much work as in 1886 and audited 2,275 accounts more.) This office is to be congratulated upon the fact that every desk in the several divisions has been cleared of all delayed work, and there is nothing at all in the way of a prompt settlement of current business. This work has been accomplished, however, at no sacrifice to the most rigid examination of accounts, and every question, legal or otherwise, involved in their adjustment. It is with pardonable pride that I make this announcement in my report, and in connection therewith take pleasure in commending Hon. E. P. Baldwin, the very efficient deputy auditor, and the chiefs, clerks, and other employés, who by their faithful, energetic, and intelligent service have made such an announcement possible.

Respectfully submitted.

Auditor.

Hon. CHARLES S. FAIRCHILD,
Secretary of the Treasury

Although fewer accounts were audited during the fiscal year 1887 than in 1886, yet there was no corresponding diminution in the work performed, the bulk of accounts being larger in 1887 than in the previous year, as indicated by the amount of disbursements:

|           | Accounts. | Disbursements.    |
|-----------|-----------|-------------------|
| 1886..... | 1, 559    | $3, 759, 863. 87 |
| 1887..... | 1, 384    | 4, 540, 543. 85   |

In this connection it may be noted that prior to August, 1884, each recruiting officer in charge of a rendezvous was also a disbursing officer and rendered monthly accounts. From that time until September, 1886, all recruiting expenses were paid by the superintendents of the recruiting service at New York and Saint Louis. Since September, 1886, there has been but one superintendent, stationed at New York, who defrays all expenses incurred at the various rendezvous as well as at headquarters, by checks on the assistant treasurer, New York. While this change has simplified the accounts of the recruiting service and reduced the number of such accounts from about four hundred per annum to twelve, it has not materially lessened the number of vouchers to be examined.

The disbursements allowed in settlement of accounts of Indian agents, inspectors, and other disbursing officers of the Indian service amounted to $1,921,724.73, and there was certified as due contractors and other claimants for services and supplies the sum of $3,813,005.95, making the total disbursements $5,734,730.68.

There have been furnished the Second Comptroller, to be forwarded to the Solicitor of the Treasury, for suit, 18 transcripts of accounts, involving the sum of $63,720.24, mostly consisting of items suspended or disallowed in settlement by reason of infractions of law or regulations.

As the term "accounts" used in the above tabular statement includes not only the regular quarterly accounts of disbursing officers, but also the sets of explanations made by them in answer to objections raised by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs and the accounting officers, the following analysis of accounts on hand is added:

The simultaneous examination of cash and property accounts, referred to in last year's report, has been productive of the good results anticipated, and it is believed that these accounts are now examined with a thoroughness never before attained. The success of the system of records by which property is traced from purchase to issue continues to demonstrate the completeness and utility of the method adopted, but the great amount of work involved, which is regarded as merely incidental to the proper adjustment of accounts and claims, can not be exhibited in any general summary of results.

The amount involved in 8,744 claims audited and allowed is $1,016,456.49. The number of letters written was 203,981, an average of about eight to each claim disposed of, including those disallowed and referred elsewhere. Number of vouchers examined, 100,432.

The accounts of 4,400 soldiers of the regular Army who deserted between April 13, 1861, and December 31, 1880, have been examined and the sum of $67,709.84 found due the Soldiers' Home under section 4818, Revised Statutes. Unclaimed moneys due the estates of deceased soldiers, amounting to $3,162.59, have also been found due the Home under the same law.

DIVISION FOR THE INVESTIGATION OF FRAUD.

The number of cases reported as remaining on hand June 30, 1886, was 7,100, but subsequent examination showed that 497 were merely additional settlements which had been made in certain cases. Treating all settlements in favor of the same soldier as one case there were only 6,603 individual cases on hand at the commencement of the fiscal year 1887. Since then 600 new cases have been referred to this division; 6,269 cases have been examined and re-examined, and 1,790 finally disposed of, leaving 5,413 on hand June 30, 1887, of the following classes:

The number of vouchers examined in the settlement of returns was 47,528. Certificates of non-indebtedness were issued in favor of 5,249 officers, mostly volunteers, who have filed claims for additional allowances under recent laws and decisions. The sum of $2,023.34 was charged to officers for clothing, etc., not accounted for, and collections were made to the amount of $974.38. Letters received, 4,875; letters written, 3,008; letters recorded, 1,546.

Prior to 1871 this division was charged with the settlement of property accounts or returns rendered by Army officers responsible for ordnance, ordnance stores, and supplies, but on December 19, 1870, the Secretary of War directed that such returns, after rigid examination by the Chief of Ordnance, should be filed in the Ordnance Office, and not transmitted to the Treasury. As the act of March 3, 1817 (section 277, Revised Statutes), makes it the duty of the Second Auditor to receive and examine all accounts relating to military stores, it may be questioned whether such property accounts as have received only the rigid examination of the Ordnance Office have been adjusted in accordance with law. (See 13 Op., 483.)

Compared with last year's report the foregoing statement shows an increase of 3,708 in the number of inquiries received, and of 4,828 in the number answered, and a decrease of 194 in the number on hand. Of those remaining unanswered more than one-sixth are held for information from the Paymaster-General's Office as to date of final payment of enlisted men.

Miscellaneous work.—Muster-rolls and vouchers copied for the Adjutant-General, 296; letters, final statements, affidavits, certificates of disability, special orders, applications, and other papers copied, 1,583; pages of foolscap used in copying, 1,084; signatures examined for verification, 6,575; letters written, 4,103; descriptive lists of 22,432 soldiers briefed and filed away; final statements of discharged and deceased soldiers arranged and filed for future reference, 11,615. In this connection, 1,509 quarterly returns of deceased soldiers, embracing 22,282 names, have been examined, and reference slips filed with 20,170 settlements and 476 claims.

MAIL DIVISION.

For the better management of the increasing correspondence of the office as regards dispatch, accuracy, and uniformity, the division of correspondence and records was reorganized in June, 1886, as the mail division, and part of its work transferred to the pay and bounty division to which it properly belongs. The general duties of the mail division are to carefully examine, stamp, assort, and distribute all Departmental and other official mails as soon as received; to answer such letters as do not relate to the accounts of disbursing officers or to claims on file; to refer or otherwise properly dispose of all letters, claims, etc., erroneously addressed to the Second Auditor, and to revise and examine the outgoing mail for the purpose of detecting and rectifying errors and irregularities. The number of letters received was 47,258; letters written, 11,634; letters referred to other offices, 735; letters returned uncalled for, 1,378.

Great difficulty having been experienced in obtaining information as to payments made to the militia of the various States called into the service of the United States since the war of 1812, and of which no record was made, a complete register of such payments by companies and regiments is now being prepared.

CONDITION OF PUBLIC BUSINESS.

On July 1, 1886, the total number of accounts and claims of all kinds awaiting adjustment was 48,126; 35,252 were received during the year, making a total of 83,378, of which 4,430 were accounts of disbursing officers; 7,694 were property accounts of Army officers and Indian agents; 3,842 were claims of contractors and others for supplies furnished and services rendered to the Indian Department, and 67,412 were claims of officers and enlisted men for arrears of pay and bounty. The number audited and disposed of during the year was 36,480, as follows: Disbursing accounts, 3,258; property accounts, 4,734; Indian claims, 3,825; war claims, 24,663; leaving an aggregate of 46,898 on hand at the close of the fiscal year, namely, money accounts, 1,172; property accounts, 2,960; Indian claims, 17; claims for arrears of pay, etc., 42,749. These figures show that the volume of business to be transacted, so far as accounts and claims are concerned, has been reduced by 1,228 items, there being a decrease of 592 in the number of disbursing accounts on hand; 465 in property accounts and 183 in pay and bounty claims; while the number of Indian claims on hand has increased from five to seventeen, a temporary increase which is without significance.

Recognizing the importance, not only to the Government, but to its officers who have been intrusted with the disbursement of large sums of public money; that the accounts of such disbursement should be promptly adjusted as required by law, I have endeavored to bring this class of business as nearly up to date as possible. The accounts of Army paymasters, who disburse about $13,500,000 per annum, have been audited and the balances certified to the Second Comptroller to include March, 1886. As they do not reach this office until about three months after their date (that time being consumed by the administrative action of the Pay Department) they are twelve months in arrear. It is deemed practicable to bring them up to within six months, and a strong effort will be made to attain that end. The proposed substitution of monthly instead of bi-monthly payments to the rank and file of the Army—commissioned officers being already paid monthly—will, if effected, materially increase the bulk, though not the number, of paymasters' accounts, and will, of course, correspondingly increase the work of auditing them.

The accounts of disbursing officers of the Adjutant-General's Department, the Medical and Ordnance Departments, and sundry miscellaneous disbursing officers, whose payments average about $3,500,000 per annum, are well in hand and do not call for special comment.

The accounts of Indian agents and other disbursing officers of the Indian Department, who expend about $2,300,000 per annum, have been audited as nearly up to date as is practicable; in fact, many settlements have had to be postponed until the receipt of further accounts from the Indian Office. On June 30 there were only forty-five cash and forty property accounts not acted upon.

CLAIMS FOR ARREARS OF PAY AND BOUNTY.

The increase in the number of claims for arrears of pay and bounty presented to this office during the last seven years is sufficiently remarkable to call for special notice, and serves to explain the fact that twenty-two years after the close of the war of 1861-'65 there are upward of 42,000 claims awaiting adjudication. The minimum appears to have been reached in 1881, when only 8,682 claims were filed. The yearly record since then is as follows: 1882, 13,789; 1883, 16,971; 1884, 14,919; 1885, 19,762; 1886, 19,922; 1887, 24,480. These figures show that nearly three times more claims were presented in 1887 than in 1881. The increase is attributable to new legislation and decisions of the Supreme Court and the Second Comptroller, of which the following is a list:

(1) Decision of Second Comptroller, January 18, 1882, that every officer, regular or volunteer, in service during any part of the two years from July 1, 1866, is entitled to the increase of  $33\frac{1}{3}$  per cent. on pay proper, under the act of March 2, 1867, (14 Stat., 422; Comptroller's Digest, vol. 2, section 788.)

(2) Acts of July 19, 1848, and February 19, 1879, and decision of Supreme Court December 8, 1884, in relation to three months' extra pay for services in the Mexican war. (9 Stat., 248; 20 Stat., 316; 112 U. S. Reports, 512.)

(3) Decision of Supreme Court in relation to longevity pay of retired officers—Captain Tyler's case. (105 U. S. Reports, 244.)

(4) Acts of February 24, 1881, and June 30, 1882, and decision of the Supreme Court in relation to longevity pay of Army officers for service as cadets at the Military Academy—Captain Morton's case. (21 Stat., 346; 22 Stat., 118; 112 U. S. Reports, 1.)

(5) Act of June 3, 1884, to provide for the muster and pay of certain officers and enlisted men of the volunteer forces. (23 Stat., 34.)

(6) Act July 3, 1884, granting three months' extra pay to heirs of certain volunteer officers. (23 Stat., 66.)

(7) Act July 5, 1884, to relieve certain soldiers from the charge of desertion. (23 Stat., 119.)

(8) Decision of Second Comptroller, December 24, 1885, in regard to bounty under act of April 22, 1872. (17 Stat., 55.)

(8) Act May 17, 1886, to remove charge of desertion against certain soldiers. (24 Stat., 51.)

(10) Act February 3, 1887, amendatory of the act of June 3, 1884, for the muster and pay of certain volunteers. (24 Stat., 377.)

Experience has shown that not only those persons who have valid claims under new laws and decisions make demands upon the Treasury, but that thousands of others who fancy they have not been paid in full present formal applications in such comprehensive terms as to include every kind of pay, emolument, bounty, or other allowance that has been authorized since April 19, 1861. Under the practice that obtained prior to 1882, claims of the class last mentioned would have been summarily rejected by the Second Auditor, but by a decision of the Second Comptroller, which has governed the disposition of such cases since January 1, 1882, they must be examined and certified to that officer, with all vouchers and other evidence, for his action under section 277, Revised Statutes. The continued influx of claims devoid of merit explains the apparently undue proportion of disallowances which, last year, was nearly 58 per cent. of the entire number disposed of. If it were possible that the time spent in the examination and investigation of worthless cases could be devoted to the adjustment of meritorious ones, the list of unsettled claims could be rapidly diminished, and creditors of the Government might expect that their business with this office would be transacted within a reasonable period.

There are other causes which militate against the prompt liquidation of claims for pay and bounty. One is, that through pressure of other business the calls of this office upon the Adjutant-General's Department for necessary information touching the military history of soldiers whose cases are under consideration have accumulated until they are seven or eight months in arrear; but I have reason to expect that this cause of delay will shortly be removed. Another is found in the absence of appropriations applicable to the payment of such claims as soon as they are certified. This is a matter that can be remedied only by legislative action.

Alluding to these claims, in his report for the fiscal year 1880, my predecessor said:

The difficulties attending the adjustment of these claims increase rather than diminish. Questions of law and fact, heirship, identity, etc., now arise that were comparatively unknown when the claims accrued, and call for an amount of careful investigation and tedious correspondence not required ten years ago.

Experience demonstrates that, as we recede from the period of the war, each year adds increased difficulties to the transaction of this class of business.

REVOLUTIONARY CLAIMS.

Judging from inquiries received during the last fiscal year, many persons have inherited claims for supplies furnished during the Revolutionary war. These claims do not come within the jurisdiction of this office, nor, indeed, of any office, as they have been barred for more than ninety-three years, but the present possessors are not aware of that fact. The law by which they are barred reads as follows:

All claims upon the United States for services or supplies, or for other cause, matter, or thing furnished or done, previous to March 4, 1789, whether founded upon certificates or other written documents from public officers, or otherwise, which have not already been barred by any act of limitation, and which shall not be presented at the Treasury before May 1, 1794, shall forever after be barred and precluded from settlement or allowance. (Act February 12, 1793; 1 Stat., 301.)

OVERPAYMENTS DURING THE LATE WAR.

There are upward of 1,500 charges on the books of this office against officers and enlisted men of volunteers who served in the late war, ranging in amount from 56 cents to nearly $3,000. Most of these cases have been investigated and demands made for refundment. In some instances, on proof being furnished the payees that they had really received more than the law allowed, repayment was made either at once or by installments. In other cases, where the payees refused or neglected to make restitution, and where their circumstances seemed to warrant such action, suits were instituted through the Department of Justice. But in the great majority of cases it has been found either that the debtors had died leaving no estate, or, if living, that they were without means of satisfying the demands of the Government. The replies elicited by letters addressed to local authorities as to the pecuniary condition of persons charged with overpayments are not without melancholy interest, showing, as they do, the low estate of many officers of the war of the rebellion. The following extracts are given as illustrations: "Disabled by wounds and financially embarrassed;" "No visible means of support;" "A poor man with a large family;" "Bankrupt and covered with judgments;" "Without home or means;" "In a charity hospital;" "Paralyzed and helpless."

Although there is hardly a possibility that the charges will ever be collected, there is no authority for removing them. The names of the payees must therefore remain on the list of persons indebted to the United States.

DEFECTIVE INQUIRIES.

Much unnecessary work is imposed upon this office by the neglect of correspondents to mention the regiments of soldiers to whom their inquiries relate. The record of claims filed since April, 1861, is kept by regiments, or other recognized organizations, such as batteries, independent companies, etc. An alphabetical list of claimants, not counting the legal representatives of deceased soldiers, would embrace more than 800,000 names, and be too unwieldy for reference, but an alphabetical record kept by regiments, etc., can be readily consulted. If the name of the soldier and the organization to which he belonged be given, any case presented to this office during the last twenty-six years can be found in a few minutes. Letters in which the soldiers' regiments are not mentioned have to be returned to the writers for further information.

DISALLOWED VOUCHERS.

In many cases where vouchers have been disallowed because the expenditures were not in accordance with law, disbursing officers have pleaded the orders of their lawful superiors as a reason why credit should not be withheld in the settlement of their accounts. Without entering into a discussion of the vexed question as to whether the accounting officers are bound to accept the orders of the head of an executive department, or an officer of rank, as sufficient authority for disbursements which, in their opinion, are not warranted by law, it is suggested that the statute in relation to disbursements made by order of commanding officers of the Navy might properly be extended to the War Department and the Indian Office. It reads as follows:

Every disbursement of public moneys, or disposal of public stores, made by a disbursing officer pursuant to an order of any commanding officer of the Navy, shall be allowed by the proper accounting officers of the Treasury in the settlement of the accounts of the officer, upon satisfactory evidence of the making of such order, and of the payment of money or disposal of stores in conformity with it; and the commanding officer by whose order such disbursement or disposal was made, shall be held accountable for the same. (Section 235, Revised Statutes.)

BOUNTY UNDER ACT OF APRIL 22, 1872.

By the act of April 22, 1872 (17 Stat., 55), every volunteer non-commissioned officer, private, musician, and artificer who enlisted prior to July 22, 1861, under the President's proclamation of May 3, 1861, and the orders of the War Department issued in pursuance thereof, and was actually mustered before August 6, 1861, is entitled to $100 bounty, provided the same has not already been paid. In adjusting claims under this act the accounting officers adopted the rule laid down by the Secretary of War in construing the act of July 22, 1861 (12 Stat., 270), and decided that "those who were enlisted and mustered as above, and who were discharged for promotion, are not entitled to this bounty, as such discharge is not considered a muster out of the service as contemplated by General Order No. 15, 1861, under which the contract was made." (Digest of Bounty Laws, 1872, page 103. See also Comptroller's Digest, 1869, section 292.) This decision governed in all cases acted upon until December 24, 1885, when it was rescinded on the ground that a soldier discharged for promotion was honorably discharged within the meaning of General Order No. 15, of 1861. As soon as this action became known many claimants whose cases had been rejected under the decision of 1872 renewed their applications for bounty, which were again rejected, for the reason that they had already been adjudicated, and that, under section 191 of the Revised Statutes, the action of the Second Comptroller in formally disallowing these claims, pursuant to the decision of 1872, was final and conclusive upon all concerned, and subject to revision only by Congress and the proper courts. The subsequent decision of 1885, by which the prior one was reversed, can not therefore be applied to cases already settled and determined, nor can such cases be re-opened by the filing of new claims. But no explanation or argument can convince the average claimant whose case was rejected under the old decision that he has not been unjustly treated. He does not understand or appreciate the salutary rule of res judicata.

The class of claimants affected by the decisions herein referred to consists of men who volunteered as private soldiers and were promoted, in many instances, for gallantry in battle. They fulfilled in all respects the conditions of the act of 1872, and were legally entitled to the benefits conferred by that act, but were denied such benefits by what must now be considered as a misinterpretation of the law. The accounting officers do not appear to be wholly responsible for that misinterpretation, but as they adopted it and are now without power to remedy any injustice that may have been done to a meritorious class of men, I think it is not improper to invite attention to the matter and to suggest the enactment of a law for the relief of such persons as, under the first interpretation of the act of April 22, 1872, have been refused the bounty granted by that act.

Respectfully yours,

WILLIAM A. DAY,
Auditor.

Hon. CHARLES S. FAIRCHILD,
Secretary of the Treasury.

(No. 11.)

REPORT OF THE THIRD AUDITOR.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
THIRD AUDITOR'S OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., November 1, 1887.

SIR: In compliance with instructions contained in your letter of July 25, 1887, to report the condition of the public business intrusted to my charge, for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1887, I have the honor to submit herewith the operations of the several divisions of this office during that period.

The total number of claims, accounts, and cases settled and disposed of during the fiscal year was 14,765, involving $102,096,136.24.

ARMY PENSION DIVISION.

This division has charge of the settlement of the accounts of Army pension agents and the adjustment of all matters relating to the payment of Army pensions.

In order to adjust these accounts properly it is necessary to keep an account with each pensioner from the time the name is placed on the pension rolls until the pension ceases by death or otherwise. This office has, therefore, the records of all payments to pensioners from March 4, 1789, and the vouchers and receipts for each separate payment from July 1, 1818, the date when by authority of the act of April 9, 1818, the disbursements were placed under the control of the Secretary of War (instead of the Secretary of the Treasury) and the adjudication of the accounts transferred from the First to the Third Auditor. The vouchers and accounts prior to that time were in the custody of the Register of the Treasury, and have been destroyed. A portion of them were burned by the British in 1814, and the remainder in the Treasury fire in 1833.

The report of the operations of this division, as appears in the tabulated statement herewith submitted, shows a large growth in the work of the record section, arising from the increased number of pensions granted, increased, reissued, etc., including Mexican war pensions. The number of notifications of issue of pensions during the fiscal year was 101,363, against 75,542 received the previous year—an excess of 25,281, or 33 per cent. The number recorded during the same period was 91,710, against 79,221 in the previous year—a gain of 12,489, or 15 per cent. There was also a large increase in the work assigned to the examining section, the accounts received involving $71,817,061.56, against $63,989,888.97 received in 1886—a difference of $7,827,172.59, or 12 per cent. Notwithstanding this addition to the business, and the fact that the force employed averaged 33 clerks against 41 in the previous year, the work has been kept up to date.

CLAIMS DIVISION.

This division is charged with the settlement of claims of a miscellaneous character arising in the various branches of service in the War Department, and growing out of the purchase or appropriation of supplies and stores for the Army; the purchase, hire, or appropriation of water-craft, railroad stock, horses, wagons, and other means of transportation; the transportation contracts of the Army; the occupation of real estate for camps, barracks, hospitals, fortifications, etc.; the hire of employés, mileage, courts-martial fees, traveling expenses, commutations, etc.; claims for compensation for vessels, railroad-cars, engines, etc., lost in the military service; claims, under act March 3, 1885, for compensation for private property lost by officers and soldiers in the military service; claims growing out of the Oregon and Washington war of 1855 and 1856, and other Indian wars; claims of various descriptions under special acts of Congress, and claims not otherwise assigned for adjudication.

The tabular statement herewith shows the number of claims received and settled, respectively, during the fiscal year, and the number on hand at the beginning and the end, respectively, of the year.

In the class called "Miscellaneous," which includes the great mass of the claims, it is pleasing to note the great reduction made in each of the last two fiscal years, as shown by comparison, as follows:

On hand July 1, 1884, 21,620 claims ($9,389,571.31); on hand July 1, 1885, 22,239 claims ($9,470,501.21), an increase of 619. On hand July 1, 1886, 9,652 claims ($2,299,252.95), a reduction of 12,587. On hand July 1, 1887, 2,681 claims ($330,467.19), a reduction of 6,971. Thus the aggregate reduction in the two years is 19,558 claims, involving $9,140,034.02. This very gratifying showing is not due to any falling off in the receipt of claims; on the contrary, the number received in each of the last two years greatly exceeded that received in the year ended June 30, 1885, viz:

|                                            |       |
|--------------------------------------------|-------|
| Received in year ended June 30, 1885 ..... | 4,259 |
| June 30, 1886 .....                        | 7,623 |
| June 30, 1887 .....                        | 7,307 |

COLLECTION DIVISION.

This division prepares transcripts of accounts of defaulting officers to be reported for suit; examines and reports on all cases for information from the files of the office in various matters, including reports on the evidence relating to claims for bounty land and pensions to soldiers of the war of 1812.

Under the act of July 4, 1864, providing for the adjustment of claims for quartermaster's stores and commissary supplies taken from loyal citizens in loyal States for the use of the United States Army, a large amount of work was imposed on this division. The vast majority of these claims was not supported by vouchers or receipts, but rested entirely upon ex parte testimony. As one check upon them, the Quartermaster-General and the Commissary-General have, from time to time, called on this office for examinations of the accounts rendered by officers of those departments in respect both to property taken from or payments made to the claimants. In many cases the claimants could only approximate to the dates of the taking of their property, and frequently could not give the names of the officers who took it. As the Union Armies were almost constantly upon the move in Tennessee and Kentucky—the States in which the great majority of this class of claims originated—and as payments upon vouchers (if issued) might have been made by officers at long distances, the examinations required have generally covered voluminous accounts of a great number of officers and for long periods, and the burden of this labor has been correspondingly large. I am much gratified at the improvement which has been made in disposing of this work. From being far in arrears at the commencement of my term of office, the work has been so brought up by great diligence, that the examinations are now usually completed within one month from the receipt of the inquiries, and this, too, with a reduced clerical force.

The sum of $35,688.35 has been collected and covered into the Treasury during the year, received from delinquent pension agents, quartermasters, and commissaries. These delinquencies were in most cases of long standing—covering a period of the last twenty years.

As shown in the tabulated statement, the work of the division is well in hand; in fact, current work and cases are usually disposed of within a few days after they have been received.

MILITARY DIVISION.

The military division settles the accounts of quartermasters for the transportation of the Army and its supplies; the purchase of clothing, camp and garrison equipage, horses, mules, forage, fuel; the support of the Military Academy and military prisons; accounts of commissaries and acting commissaries for the purchase, preservation, and distribution of provisions and stores necessary for the subsistence of the Army; accounts of engineers for the construction and preservation of fortifications and breakwaters, the improvement of rivers and harbors, and for surveys on the coasts, lakes, and rivers; accounts of the Signal Service for Army signaling, reconstruction and repair of military telegraphs, and for the observation and report of storms for the benefit of commerce.

From an examination of the tabular statement appended it will be observed that 2,495 accounts, involving $5,986,306.72, remaining over from the fiscal year 1886; that 6,877 accounts, involving $20,895,946.16 were received, and 6,254, involving $21,581,824.65 were settled; that 373 supplemental settlements, involving the sum of $1,304,040.50 were made during the year; that 1,738 property returns remaining from the fiscal year 1886; 8,877 were received and 8,945 were settled during the year; 8,529 letters were written; 930,714 vouchers were examined; 21,379 pages manuscript were written, and 3,739 inquiries of the Second Auditor for report as to the condition of the accounts of officers designated by him, were examined and reported on; all the above being the result of the labor of 23 clerks.

The business in this division is now brought up as close to the military bureaus from whence the accounts and returns are received for adjustment, as their methods will permit. Owing to the mode of transacting business in the quartermaster's department, and, to a certain extent, in the subsistence department, accounts of any one officer for any given period, can not well be adjusted until the accounts of other officers with whom he may have interchanged money or property have also been received, so that debits and credits may be verified. The work is also as close up to the Second Comptroller as is desirable, for the reason, that when an account has been adjusted and reported for revision and certification the same officer's accounts for subsequent periods, that may have been received soon after the settlement of prior accounts was reported to the Comptroller, can not be adjusted and stated until the settlement of the prior periods have been certified by the Comptroller. Notwithstanding that fact the average length of time accounts remained in the files in this office prior to adjustment, as shown by a close inventory made by me a few months ago, is as follows, viz :

Quartermaster accounts, 2 months 18 days.

Signal accounts, 8 months 11 days.

Engineer accounts, 4 months 17 days.

Subsistence accounts, 3 months 15 days.

And at the close of the fiscal year the average of all the accounts was 3 months and 1 day. At the time the inventory above referred to was made, it was found the average period which had elapsed from the date of rendition until the accounts reached this office from the military bureaus having administrative action on them, was as follows, viz :

Quartermaster accounts, 10 months 9 days.

Signal accounts, 4 months 8 days.

Engineer accounts, 2 months 8 days.

Subsistence accounts, 3 months.

Upon comparison with prior reports I find the amount involved in the military accounts on hand at the close of the fiscal year, viz, $5,300,428.22, is less than at the close of any fiscal year since 1860, with the exception of one year, when only one river and harbor appropriation had been made in three years, consequently the engineer accounts for one year were comparatively small and nearly closed. Upon comparison of the result of the present year's operations with that of the fiscal years 1885 and 1886, respectively, I find a marked increase in the percentage of labor performed. The clerical force employed in 1885, on military accounts and returns, was 18 per cent. more than in 1886, and 22 per cent. more than in 1887; also, that 4 per cent. more were employed in 1886 than in 1887; and the proportional increase in labor performed in 1887 over that in the fiscal years mentioned is as follows :

Increase in labor in 1886 over 1885, 37.5 per cent.

Increase in labor in 1887 over 1885, 94.5 per cent.

Increase in labor in 1887 over 1886, 40.1 per cent.

It is needless to add that this favorable result was only attained by the increased industry of the force employed.

The accounts of officers of the Quartermaster's Office now run very smoothly. When expenditures have been made and paid from an appropriation for a different fiscal year from that to which it was properly chargeable, and to that extent the law governing appropriations violated, it is customary to adjust the matter by means of a transfer settlement, in which a requisition is called for, the proper warrant to charge the expenditure to the appropriation for the fiscal year from which it should have been paid, and carry a like sum to the credit of the appropriation from which the expenditure was wrongfully paid. The War Department, however, does not always act promptly in such cases, the delay at times being apparently for the purpose of "saving" the appropriation properly chargeable, so that it can be drawn again for current use, instead of paying debts to other years. Some certificates of settlements made in such cases have been in the War Department two years, others a less period, awaiting the Secretary's requisition for the necessary warrants to adjust the appropriations on the books of this office, thus to that extent at least rendering nugatory the efforts of the accounting officers to confine expenditures to the appropriations for the proper fiscal year, as contemplated by existing laws on the subject.

In the adjustment of accounts for disbursements on account of subsistence of the Army considerable extra labor has been necessary, by reason of extra-duty service in that branch of the Army having been paid from the appropriation "Subsistence of the Army" instead of by the Quartermaster-General from the appropriation "Incidental expenses." Transfer settlements are being made as rapidly as possible, and it is believed that at an early day nearly all such cases will be adjusted. As such service has been specifically provided for in appropriations for the subsistence of the Army subsequent to the fiscal year 1886, such complications will not arise again. Engineer accounts are generally adjusted soon after their rendition and reception, this being possible for the reason that each officer's account is not connected with the accounts of other officers of the corps. And their adjustment would be facilitated if their property returns were received with the accounts to which they pertain. They are now received after the money accounts have been examined, and credits claimed on account of purchase of property are necessarily suspended until the property returns for the period have been received and examined, thus making additional labor.

The signal accounts were under special investigation by the Second Comptroller during a considerable portion of the year.

Congress a few years ago made appropriations for the construction by the Signal Service of sundry military telegraph lines south of the Union Pacific Railroad, and provided that the expenses of operation and repair should be paid from receipts for commercial business sent over the lines, any excess of receipts over expenses to be covered into the Treasury. Subsequent legislation made appropriations for the construction by the Signal Service of similar lines north of the Union Pacific Railroad, a proviso being added, that the receipts from commercial business should be deposited in the Treasury, and that the expenses of operation and repair should be paid from appropriations for the Army; but the acts failed to designate the special appropriation for the Army to be charged with such expense. The lines last referred to were generally constructed under the supervision of the officers who built the southern lines, and the receipts from commercial business were used to liquidate the expenses of operation and repair, the same as provided by law should be done in the southern system, but in direct violation of the laws under which the northern system of lines were constructed. When the accounts of the officers in charge of the northern system of lines were adjusted, all such expenditures were disallowed as in violation of law, and remain disallowed against the officers who made the expenditures. Congress having failed to designate the particular appropriations for the Army to be charged with the expense of operating and keeping the lines in repair, the matter could not be adjusted by a transfer settlement.

Congress in the act approved March 3, 1883, "provided that on and after the 1st day of July, 1883, all moneys received for the transmission of private dispatches over any and all telegraph lines owned or operated by the United States shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States, and all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed." Since the fiscal year 1883 specific appropriations have been made for the maintenance and repair of the military telegraph lines. In view of the facts above recited, and of the further fact that the officers referred to disbursed the receipts in good faith, believing they were authorized under the law to do so, it is respectfully suggested that the matter be brought to the attention of Congress, with a recommendation for their relief.

The number of officers on duty during the fiscal year 1887, whose accounts and returns are settled in this division, is as follows, viz:

|                                 |       |
|---------------------------------|-------|
| Quartermaster's Department..... | 925   |
| Subsistence Department .....    | 461   |
| Engineer Corps .....            | 40    |
| Signal Corps.....               | 275   |
| Total.....                      | 1,701 |

In conclusion, I desire to bear testimony to the industry of the clerks employed, as well as their skill in the adjustment of accounts covering such a wide range of expenditures made under so many various and conflicting laws, orders, and regulations.

MISCELLANEOUS DIVISION.

The miscellaneous division adjusts, under section 4718, Revised Statutes, claims for expenses incurred on account of last sickness and burial of deceased pensioners; also records, compares, copies, indexes, and registers letters; copies and compares difference sheets and miscellaneous papers, and has charge of the filing and care of settlements, etc., made by the office.

There remained on hand at the close of the fiscal year 117 reimbursement claims undisposed of under section 4718 Revised Statutes, as against 1,167 on November, 1885, the date of the formation of the division, and 690 cases remaining on hand June 30, 1886. During the year 41 claims have been investigated by the secret service division under the direction of this office, resulting in a saving to the Government of over $30,000, and in the conviction of several persons for presenting false claims. Not only has the current work been kept up, and claims which had laid dormant for years been disposed of, but the work has been performed with less force and in a far more satisfactory manner. This office is under obligations to the Commissioner of Pensions and the various pension agents, for the promptness with which they furnish such information as may be called for in order to expedite the settlement of reimbursement claims.

The work in the other sections of the division is in a very satisfactory condition.

HORSE CLAIMS DIVISION.

This division adjusts claims for compensation for losses of horses and equipage sustained by officers and enlisted men in the military service of the United States; also, those of other persons for horses, mules, oxen, wagons, sleighs, and harness, while the same were in the military service of the United States, by impressment or contract.

In submitting the tabular report of the operations of this division for the last fiscal year, I desire to explain the item "Claims on hand June 30, 1886." For many years the figures entering into this item have been the result of estimates, and these figures, less the reductions caused by the annual disposition of cases, have been carried forward from year to year and accepted as correct. It was not until April 1, 1887, that a careful count was made of the number of claims pending and the amount thereof, which showed that while, according to the estimated number, there should have been on hand 6,921 claims, there were in fact 9,545, or 2,624 more than appeared on the record. These were classified as follows:

|                                                                                            |       |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------|
| War of 1812, Mexican war, and other claims accruing prior to the war of the rebellion..... | 1,877 |
| Indian Home Guards claims .....                                                            | 1,249 |
| Claims for losses accruing during the war of the rebellion .....                           | 6,419 |
| Total .....                                                                                | 9,545 |

This corrected data would make the actual number on hand June 30, 1886, 11,039 instead of 8,415, as stated in my annual report for the fiscal year. The total amount claimed was also increased from $1,325,521.75 to $1,447,911.10.

The number of cases disposed of the past year is greater than that of any previous year. Those allowed and rejected in the years named were as follows :

|            |       |
|------------|-------|
| 1881 ..... | 397   |
| 1882 ..... | 441   |
| 1883 ..... | 533   |
| 1884 ..... | 762   |
| 1885 ..... | 935   |
| 1886 ..... | 2,813 |
| 1887 ..... | 3,088 |

I am confident that during the current year at least one-half or more of the cases on hand will be disposed of. Due consideration will be given to each case and no hurried disposition will be made of any claim. This will be accomplished with a less number of clerks than has been employed in the division for many years.

BOOK-KEEPER'S DIVISION.

This division keeps the appropriation accounts pertaining to the office of the Third Auditor, upon which pay and counter requisitions are drawn by the Secretaries of War and Interior; also the accounts of disbursing officers and agents handling funds so drawn.

The tabular statement herewith shows the financial operations of this office during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1887. It will be observed that the requisitions of this office on the Treasury for the period named amounted to $103,371,167.07, nearly or quite one-third the total expenses of the Government for the fiscal year.

STATE WAR CLAIMS.

[Under immediate supervision of the Auditor.]

The investigation and settlement of State war claims include all claims filed in this office by the several States and Territories, under the various acts and resolutions of Congress for the costs, charges, and expenses incurred by them for enrolling, subsisting, clothing, supplying, arming, equipping, paying, and transporting their troops employed in aiding to suppress the late rebellion against the United States, 1861-'65, and all claims arising out of Indian hostilities and border invasions.

The following statement shows the operations in these claims for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1887 :

|                                 | Claims. | Amount.        |
|---------------------------------|---------|----------------|
| On hand June 30, 1886.....      | 190     | $9,542,615.89 |
| Received during the year.....   | 2       | 24,446.96      |
| Reopened during the year.....   | 8       | 277,189.64     |
| Total .....                     | 200     | 9,844,252.49   |
| Allowed during the year.....    | 25      | 109,271.38     |
| Disallowed during the year..... | 116     | 4,763,003.66   |
| Total.....                      | 141     | 4,872,275.04   |
| On hand June 30, 1887.....      | 59      | 4,971,977.45   |

Letters received, 393; pages manuscript written, 1,300; letters written, 381; vouchers examined, 3,062.

It will be seen from the above statement that much has been done toward the final adjustment of the claims of the States.

During the year 141 claims have been finally disposed of, involving $4,872,275.04, of which sum $109,271.38 were found due States, as follows:

| Name of State.      | Amount.     | Name of State.      | Amount.    |
|---------------------|-------------|---------------------|------------|

It is proper to add here that the further sum of $35,860.86 was found due the State of Ohio by the Second Comptroller in a claim which had been previously disallowed by this office. The several amounts found due have been placed to the credit of the States named, to await an appropriation by Congress for payment, except $8,813.66 and $7,460, reported due the States of Kentucky and New York, respectively, not as yet acted on by the Second Comptroller's Office.

The absence of a uniform system for filing these State accounts and the condition of the office records referring to the various operations touching these matters, have led to some embarrassment and delay in arriving at correct results; but after a careful revision of the claims which enter into the report for the year, and the adoption of a more complete method for keeping the records, no difficulty will hereafter be encountered in arriving at the true status of each and every account.

The following statement shows the comparison of work done for the fiscal years ending June 30, 1885, June 30, 1886, and June 30, 1887, respectively:

But one clerk has been employed in the settlement of State war claims for each of the fiscal years shown above. From July 1, 1885, to February 1, 1886, the work was not in progress owing to the pressure of business in other branches of the office.

In response to my circular letter of June 8, 1886, addressed to the governors of the several States, requesting early presentation of further evidence—if it should be contemplated to offer any in reply to outstanding differences—much additional testimony has been offered during the past year, and the claims are being considered and disposed of as rapidly as possible.

THE CLERKS.

At the commencement of my term of office, May 1, 1885, there were 159 clerks on the pay-roll. For the salary of the Auditor, deputy auditor, clerks, and laborers, $227,210 was appropriated. The work in every division was in arrear—in some divisions, two and three years. On the 30th of June last the number of clerks actually employed was 132, and the amount paid for salaries of Auditor, deputy, clerks, and laborers, was $196,426.97.

The business of the office is in good condition and the several divisions are mostly engaged in disposing of current work. The clerks, with few exceptions, have been faithful and industrious, and as a result the public business has been disposed of with reasonable dispatch.

I am happy in again being able to call your attention to the improved condition of the health of the clerks employed in this office as compared with former years. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1885, there were 1,780 sick days. This would seem to have been a very sick year, yet I am told there were very few fatal cases. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1886, there were 626½ sick days, and for the last fiscal year only 464 sick days. It is suggested that the climatic conditions of Washington may have changed with the change of officials, about which I express no opinion.

Very respectfully,

JNO. S. WILLIAMS,
Third Auditor.

Hon. CHARLES S. FAIRCHILD,
Secretary of the Treasury.

SETTLEMENTS ON CONTRACTS.

I feel it my duty to call your attention particularly to the prevailing method of the Navy Department in making payments on contracts.

For some years it has been the custom to require disbursing officers to pay out large sums of money on public bills, upon which no action can be taken by the accounting officers until the vouchers come before them in the quarterly returns of the paymaster, several months after the payments have been made.

In case the accounting officers should be of the opinion that the payment was illegal, there is nothing to be done except suspend the voucher and hold the disbursing officer responsible, and since he has paid this money upon the order of the Secretary of the Navy, it would be arbitrary and unreasonable to require that he be made to refund it.

The remedy, in my opinion, for this is contained in sections 236 and 277 of the Revised Statutes.

The former provides that "all claims and demands whatever by the United States, or against them, and all accounts whatever in which the United States are concerned, either as debtors or creditors, shall be settled and adjusted in the Department of the Treasury." The latter provides that "the Fourth Auditor shall receive and examine all accounts accruing in the Navy Department or relative thereto."

In view of the possible losses that may fall upon the Government from this system of payments, and the embarrassments to disbursing and accounting officers that must inevitably arise, and for the proper settlement of these accounts in accordance with the law as above quoted, I beg that such steps be taken as may seem to you to be proper, to have all demands for payments under contracts in the Navy presented to this office for settlement, and that payments by disbursing officers be restricted to necessary current expenses, such as pay of officers and men, supplies needed for immediate use, expenditures on shipboard, and purchases in foreign parts.

PROPERTY RETURNS.

In the last two annual reports from this Bureau attention was called to the necessity of having accounts of the public property of the Navy in the hands of officers of the Navy and Marine Corps rendered to this office for settlement.

In view of the increased appropriations for the construction of new ships and fitting them out for service, the necessity for an accounting for property purchased is imperative.

DISTRIBUTION OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS.

Your attention is called to the inequality existing in the distribution of public accounts amongst the Auditors.

Some of the Auditors have a large clerical force and are then unable to keep up their work without assistance from other Bureaus. It would seem that a distribution of the accounts according to the laws hereinafter referred to would be more in accordance with the evident intention of the law makers, and would best promote the interest of the Government.

This inequality was recognized and commented upon by Mr. James Guthrie, in his annual report as Secretary of the Treasury of December 4, 1854, in the following language:

It would facilitate the business and render less complicated the accounts of the Departments should all the accounts of the Interior Department be given to the Second Auditor, and all accounts of the War Department be given to the Third Auditor, as recommended in my former report.

And in his report December 3, 1855, he said:

In my former report the attention of Congress was called to the fact that the duties of the Auditors, under existing laws, were not properly divided; and inconveniences existed in the present distribution of duties * * * to the certain delay in the adjustment of accounts. This could be remedied by giving the Secretary of the Treasury authority, with the sanction of the President, to make the proper division and arrangement of business amongst the several Auditors and Comptrollers and report it to Congress.

As to the remedy suggested by Mr. Guthrie I would ask if it is not possible to accomplish the desired result without going to Congress. Does not the law establishing the offices of the Auditors define their duties and make a more equal distribution of the work?

In the act establishing the Treasury Department, approved September 2, 1789, section 5 provides—

That it shall be the duty of the Auditor to receive all public accounts, etc.

At that time, and until 1817, there was but one Auditor. "An act to provide for the prompt settlement of public accounts" was approved March 3, 1817, and section 4 of that act distributes the accounts amongst five Auditors. It gives to the First the accounts accruing in the Treasury Department. To the Second and Third the War Department. To the Fourth all accounts accruing in the Navy Department or relative thereto. To the Fifth all accounts accruing in or relative to the Department of State, the General Post-Office, and Indian Affairs, clearly showing it was the intention of the law to distribute as nearly as possible amongst the five Auditors all public accounts, and giving to every Department one Auditor.

Section 5 of the same act provides—

That it shall be the duties of the Auditors charged with the examination of the accounts of the War and Navy Departments to keep all the accounts of the receipts and expenditures of the public moneys advanced relative to those Departments, etc.

From a careful review of the laws establishing the Auditors' offices and defining their duties it would appear that the accounts have never been distributed according to the statute. In 1885, soon after assuming the duties of this Bureau, similar views were submitted by me to Secretary Manning, who referred the letter to the Solicitor for his opinion thereon.

The accounts in the various Departments are so distinct, and as each Department has its own disbursing officer, I do not think that the salaries of employes in other Departments than the Treasury can be construed to arise even technically in the Treasury.

With the same propriety all persons paid by appropriation bills, such as Army and Navy officers, might be construed to arise in the Treasury. It may have been the settled rule since 1817, nevertheless that rule seems to be in violation of the statute defining the duties of the Auditors.

The disbursements on account of the Naval Observatory, Hydrographic Bureau, and Nautical Almanac should be audited by this office, as was the custom up to the end of the fiscal year 1882.

I trust that the foregoing suggestions will meet with your favorable consideration, and if you concur therein and feel that you have not the power to enforce them, that you recommend Congress to take such action as to you may appear proper.

I have the honor to be, sir, your obedient servant,

C. M. SHELLEY,
Auditor.

It is a well-known fact that the American people are not properly educated in the principles of medicine. The average citizen is not able to distinguish between the various schools of medicine, and is often misled by the claims of quacks and charlatans. It is the duty of the medical profession to educate the public in the principles of medicine, and to show them the value of the various schools of medicine.

The American Medical Association has been organized for the purpose of promoting the interests of the medical profession, and of educating the public in the principles of medicine. It has been successful in its efforts, and has been able to secure the recognition of the medical profession by the government and the public.

|                                                                               | 918,973.26   |
| Excess of receipts over expenditures.....                                     | 31,717.38    |

It will be seen from the above statement that the consular service for 1887 has been not only self-sustaining, but has paid a small surplus of revenue to the Government.

The amount paid for "Salaries consular service," as reported, is $708.05 in excess of the appropriation. Accounts yet to be received or perfected, when adjusted, will still add to the amount several thousand dollars, showing that the appropriation has been considerably exceeded this year, as was the case for 1886, and which is attributable to the same cause, namely: The payments made to consular officers for time receiving instructions, awaiting the receipt of exequatur, and making transit to and from their posts, authorized by section 1740 of the Revised Statutes, but not provided for in the appropriation, amounting, in 1887, to $17,667.80.

I would respectfully suggest that the Secretary of State be requested to ask Congress to make an annual permanent appropriation to cover the payments to consular officers while receiving instructions, awaiting exequatur, and making transit. The same should also be done in the case of diplomatic officers. By such appropriations the inconvenience to officers whose salaries are specifically provided for by law might be avoided, of having to wait for a deficiency appropriation because their money has been applied to the payment of those extra services which were not appropriated for.

The amount of consular fees collected exceeds that of any previous year, and they were in kind, as follows:

|                                                    |              |
|----------------------------------------------------|--------------|
| Invoice certificates.....                          | $859,454.72 |
| Landing certificates.....                          | 35,927.00    |
| Bills of health.....                               | 17,682.75    |
| Currency certificates.....                         | 16,768.00    |
| Certificates of returned goods, packages, etc..... | 5,964.50     |
| Other fees.....                                    | 14,893.67    |
|                                                    | <hr/>        |
| Total.....                                         | 950,690.64   |

For 1886 the fees were reported at $881,569.79. An increase over last year is shown for 1887 of $69,120.85, arising principally from the same source from which came the addition of $90,224.36 for 1886 over 1885—from the certification of certificates to invoices. This shows a continued increase in the number of shipments of goods to this country.

Relief of seamen.—As shown in Tables F and G, accounts for relief and wages of seamen were adjusted with the following results:

|                                                          |              |
|----------------------------------------------------------|--------------|
| Boarding and lodging.....                                | $6,598.42   |
| Clothing.....                                            | 3,748.21     |
| Medical aid.....                                         | 5,604.78     |
| Passage to the United States (paid at Treasury).....     | 10,700.48    |
| Other expenses.....                                      | 5,086.60     |
| Total disbursed for relief of seamen.....                | 31,738.49    |
| Arrears of wages collected.....                          | 256,425.17   |
| Extra wages collected.....                               | 4,555.77     |
|                                                          | 260,980.94   |
| Extra and arrears of wages paid to seamen.....           | $247,140.44 |
| Refunded at the Treasury under act of June 26, 1884..... | 182.86       |
|                                                          | 247,323.30   |
| Balance of wages.....                                    | 13,657.64    |

The above sum of $13,657.64, representing wages of seamen, will be reduced to at least $8,057.64 by vouchers yet to be received of payments made to seamen. This amount, then, $8,057.64, will represent the seamen's own money which has been used for their support, and should be deducted from the total amount, $31,738.49, shown above to have been expended for relief of seamen, in order to arrive at the actual outlay from the appropriation for those who were destitute. This gives $23,680.85 as the actual expenditure for 1887.

The actual cost to the Government for the relief of destitute seamen for 1886, as shown by the exact figures on final adjustment, was $23,883.42.

There were relieved during the year 959 destitute seamen, as against 1,235 in 1886—one-fourth less number of seamen, yet the cost to the Government was nearly the same. The average cost per seaman was $5.35 more for 1887 than for 1886. The additional cost is attributable to the increased allowance to steamers for the transportation of seamen to the United States, authorized by the act of June 19, 1886. The number of seamen brought to the United States was exactly the same for both years, being 593; while the cost of transportation was $4,280.28 more in 1887 than in 1886, being $10,700.48 in 1887 and $6,420.20 in 1886.

Of the 959 seamen relieved, 551 were shipwrecked, and only 43 were reported as deserters from their vessels. Medical assistance was provided for 170 men.

On the subject of wages to seamen it may be stated that consular officers sometimes send money which they have collected as wages of seamen to the Treasury on account of the sailors, instead of paying it to them. Under the present system or custom such moneys are covered into the Treasury to the credit of the appropriation for "Relief and protection of American seamen," and when claim is made for them at the Treasury they are paid from the said appropriation. The claimants for these moneys sometimes fail to call for them until after the appropriation has lapsed according to law, and they are then subjected to great delays in receiving their money, having to wait for Congressional action for supplying the fund. Moneys held by the Government in trust should be available to the owners at all times, and not subject to be passed into the surplus fund at the end of every two years, as is now the case.

It not unfrequently happens, also, that other moneys belonging to American citizens are collected and sent to the Treasury by consular officers abroad, in trust for the legal owners, such as the proceeds of salvages and of other property.

Provision was made by section 4584 of the Revised Statutes for the retaining of one-third of the three month's extra wages collectible under the law then existing, for the purpose of creating a fund for the maintenance and passage to the United States of destitute American seamen, under which provision the practice arose of covering such amounts, when paid in by consular officers, to the credit of the appropriation for relief of seamen, insomuch augmenting the same, and from this practice came the custom of covering into the same appropriation the moneys received in trust for seamen and others. The ground for this custom now having been taken away by the repeal of the law requiring the collection of three months' extra wages, the one-third no longer accruing to the Government, I would respectfully recommend that Congress be requested to provide for the opening of a trust fund account, into which the wages of seamen and the moneys of other persons (not deceased) received in trust may be covered, and out of which they may be paid whenever legal claim thereto shall be established. Section 1709 of the Revised Statutes provides for such a fund for moneys belonging to deceased American citizens.

Other expenses of the foreign service.—During the year other accounts relating to the foreign service have been adjusted as follows :

The business of the Bureau was considerably in excess of ordinary years, mainly on account of the settlement of nine thousand one hundred and seventy-six Alabama judgments. A number of the clerks, zealous to keep the work up, have given many extra hours of labor to that purpose, thereby insuring a prompt dispatch of the business of the office.

The work relating to the consular service is materially increased by reason of the growth of that service and the requirements incident to new legislation.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
ANTH. EICKHOFF,
Fifth Auditor.

Hon CHARLES S. FAIRCHILD,
Secretary of the Treasury.

REPORT OF THE AUDITOR OF THE TREASURY FOR THE POST-OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

OFFICE OF THE AUDITOR OF THE TREASURY
FOR THE POST-OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
Washington, D. C., November 15, 1887.

SIR: I have the honor to submit, herewith, the report of the business operations of this office for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1887.

The gratifying increase in the business and receipts of the Post-Office Department caused a corresponding increase in the work of this office; but it gives me pleasure to report that not only has the current work been disposed of, but, in addition to that, the millions of money-orders and postal notes issued and paid in the years prior to 1885 have been assorted, numbered, and filed in the archives.

The investigation of the quarterly returns of those postmasters guilty of making false reports of cancellations has steadily progressed during the year with good results to the Treasury.

This has required the examination of thousands of returns, in many cases running back to 1878.

During the fiscal year more than $100,000 has been charged back upon the accounts of postmasters, who made such fraudulent returns, and in many cases the money has already been collected, and in the others it is in process of collection.

The business of the office has been transacted under many difficulties, resulting from a lack of a building adapted to the work of the Bureau. The force is scattered in three different buildings, in no one of which is there sufficient space to accommodate either the force engaged upon the postal work or that engaged upon the work of the money-order branch.

Two of these buildings afford only ordinary protection from fire; while of necessity, records containing the money-order accounts of thousands of postmasters and involving millions of dollars, have to be stored therein.

The certainty of the steady increase of the work of the Post-Office Department renders the increase of the force employed in auditing the accounts of that Department equally certain. Proper consideration for the health and comfort of the clerical force of this Bureau, due regard for the safety of the Government records and accounts, the necessity for prompt, accurate, and systematic transaction of the business of this office, all urge me to request that steps be taken to provide a building suited to the work of the office.

Very respectfully,

D. McCONVILLE,
Sixth Auditor.

Hon. CHARLES S. FAIRCHILD,
Secretary of the Treasury.

APPENDIX.

NOTE.—Much of the summary relating to the duties and work of the different divisions of the office is omitted for want of space, but it can all be found in the pamphlet edition of the Auditor's report.

REPORT OF THE REGISTER.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
REGISTER'S OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., October 31, 1887.

SIR: Concerning the operations of this Bureau for the last fiscal year, I respectfully report to you:

That in fulfillment of the duties imposed upon this office by United States Revised Statutes, section 313 and following, and by the various acts of Congress authorizing loans, we have dispatched current work and undertaken ameliorations as hereinafter detailed.

We have been unable to accomplish all that is desirable for symmetrical closure of the accounts of the Department for lack of Departmental orders, legislation, or mandatory law, as specified in my Annual Report for 1885, pages 6 and 7, viz:

"To make clear and adequate to the demands of the future, the debtor and creditor statements require that certain entries should be made regarding the naval pension fund, surplus revenue deposits with certain States, railway bond subsidies, amounts of Revolutionary war debt, purchase of Texas, and sundry other accounts, making $116,105,031.45, which have been examined and determined. (Finance Report of 1876, page 18.)

It is respectfully suggested that, under Sec. 248 U. S. Revised Statutes, ample power has been conferred on the Secretary of the Treasury to authorize and direct to be made entries to correct all errors in public accounts growing out of wrong classification, erroneous entries and neglects to make them at proper times, which do not involve any expenditure of money not authorized by law."

Upon the exercise of this power for the corrections of our accounting in the matters above named, your predecessor in office hesitated because his predecessors had not acted, and requested me to prepare a bill which should authorize and require the necessary exercise of power; and upon my suggestion that it should be worded so as to be simply mandatory, so that it would cast no doubt upon the meaning of the language used in conferring existing statutory powers, this bill was prepared, and submitted in a supplement to my Annual Report for 1886, and with slight amendments is as follows:

"A BILL to facilitate the business of the Treasury Department.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled: SECTION 1. That for the purpose of settling the accounts of the Treasurer of the United States there shall be an appropriation account on the proper books of the Treasury Department to be known as the "unavailable-balances" account, to which all unavailable balances, except lapsed appropriations, shall be transferred by warrants based upon the proper settlement of the First Auditor, confirmed by the First Comptroller; and all such transfers heretofore made, other than by warrants, including the amounts deposited with several States by act of June twenty-third, eighteen hundred and thirty-six, and all transfers by warrants from one appropriation to another in order to correct existing discrepancies in the loan, interest, and similar accounts, shall be examined, stated, and transferred as herein directed; but all such transfers shall be made in such manner as to debit the persons, State, or account properly chargeable therewith upon the personal-account books of the Register of the Treasury.

SEC. 2. That when money standing to the credit of a disbursing officer, clerk, or agent shall be repaid into the Treasury as "outstanding liabilities," under the provisions of sections three hundred and six to three hundred and ten, both inclusive, of the Revised Statutes of the United States, it shall be covered and credited upon the books of the office in which the officer, clerk, or agent was charged when the advance was made to him; and the Register of the Treasury shall furnish to the Second, Third, Fourth, and Sixth Auditors a transcript of all amounts heretofore covered into the Treasury as repayments of amounts standing to the credit of disbursing officers, clerks, or agents who are charged on their books respectively; and hereafter each of said Auditors shall keep an "outstanding-liabilities" account for the repayments herein referred to on the books of their respective offices, in the manner prescribed in said sections: Provided, That this shall apply to all cases where moneys have been or shall be repaid into the Treasury by persons declining to receive or retain them.

SEC. 3. That all unclaimed registered interest on the public debt of the United States and on bonds issued on account of Pacific railways, which has remained unclaimed for a period of two years, shall also be deposited and covered into the Treasury to the credit of the said account of "outstanding liabilities," in the manner provided in said sections, and shall only be paid thereafter in the manner prescribed thereby.

SEC. 4. That all bonds, notes, certificates, and other evidences of debt of the United States which shall have remained unclaimed for twenty-five years from and after the date at which they matured, or were called in for redemption, shall in like manner be covered into the Treasury to the credit of the said "outstanding-liabilities" account, and shall only be drawn therefrom in the manner provided in the said sections of the Revised Statutes.

SEC. 5. That the Secretary of the Treasury shall keep an accurate account of the several loans of the United States on the books of the Department, and an appropriation account to be known as the "premium and discount" account, which shall be charged with the discount and credited with the premium hereafter accruing on loans in conformity with law; and all loans which have heretofore been sold at a premium or discount may be credited or charged, as the case may require, with the amount thereof, and the amount thus credited or charged shall be carried to the account herein authorized: Provided, That the said Secretary shall direct a separate account to be kept both of premium and discount on each loan, if in his judgment it is preferable so to do.

SEC. 6. That whenever Congress shall authorize the issue of bonds, notes, certificates, or other evidences of debt in satisfaction of any claim or demand against the United States, or for which no money shall be received, it shall be the duty of the proper accounting officers of the Treasury to cause an account thereof to be settled in the usual manner, and to direct that the amount found due be paid to the Treasurer of the United States, to be by him deposited in the General Treasury as a subscription on account of said bonds or other evidences of debt; and all cases of this character which have heretofore occurred may, in the discretion of the Secretary, be examined and settled in such a manner as to enable an exact statement of the debt of the United States to be made from the warrant account of receipts and expenditures; and the Secretary of the Treasury shall continue the monthly publication of the statement of the public debt of the United States in the form and way now in use, with such variations therein from time to time as may be required by the varying condition and character of said debt.

SEC. 7. That whenever money has been or shall be erroneously covered into the Treasury of the United States, the Secretary, by warrant, shall correct said erroneous entry, charging the amount to a general appropriation account, to be known as "transfer of moneys erroneously covered"; but nothing herein contained shall be construed to authorize the payment from the Treasury of any moneys thus erroneously covered, without specific authority of law."

This bill (S. 2034) was introduced in the Senate by Hon. Mr. Beck and into the House by the Hon. Abram S. Hewitt (H. R. 6831), Forty-eighth Congress.

On the Senate Finance Committee's reference to the honorable Secretary of the Treasury, in explanation of its provisions, the following letter was written, which gives some of the principal objects to be accomplished by the proposed legislation:

MAY 6, 1886.

SIR: In response to your indorsement upon the note of the honorable chairman of the Senate Finance Committee of the 27th instant, requesting "as full and complete a statement as possible of the reasons for proposed legislation," etc. (bill S. 2034), and what will be its effect, together with a statement of existing accounts to which the provisions of the bill are to be applied, I respectfully state:

First. That the reason for section 1 are pretty fully set forth in the following extract from Senate Report No. 371, Forty-fourth Congress, p. 3, viz: "All money in the Treasury, wherever it may be placed for disbursement or custody, is charged to the Treasurer of the United States. It is obvious, however, that this money may be lost without fault on the part of the Treasurer, by robbery, accident, defalcation of a subordinate officer, misconduct of depositaries having it in charge, or otherwise. Still, under the law, the Treasurer is responsible, and is charged with these sums. Such a deficit would, in the account of a firm, be a simple, plain entry in the profit and loss account by crediting cash and debiting the defaulter. But from the fact, before stated, that money cannot be taken from the Treasurer except by an appropriation, this course would not be pursued. An account called "unavailables" was created, which was charged with the amounts, and the Treasurer credited in his general account through the statement of an account by the accounting officers. This method of relieving the Treasurer is, your committee are informed, a practice which has grown up, and is not authorized by law, and for some years past has been prohibited by the Comptroller, and has been discontinued. It is plain that the Treasurer should be relieved from this responsibility, and that Congress should in some proper way provide by law for the dropping of these unavailable funds, by authorizing a credit to the Treasurer and a corresponding charge against the defaulting officer who fails to pay the money on demand.

The effect of this section is also to make mandatory a reconciliation of the statements of the principal of the public debt, officially published by the Secretary and Register of the Treasury, which now differ by the amount of the following items, viz:

Most of these items appear in the Senate Report No. 371, Forty-fourth Congress, first session, on pages 25 and 26, and in the Finance Report of 1876, page 18; and in Treasury Department Document No. 818, current year, Statement of the Principal of the Public Debt from 1789 to 1885, etc., herewith.

In addition to the foregoing, as mentioned on page 7 of the Annual Report from this office for 1885, are:

(1) The Navy pension fund, now amounting to $14,000,000, is carried as an outstanding indebtedness in the public debt statement, while, in fact, the money is in the Treasury, subject only to the provision that an amount equal to three per cent. thereon shall annually be estimated and appropriated for Navy pensions by Congress in the usual way.

(2) The surplus revenue deposits with certain States, under the act of June 23, 1836, amounting to $28,101,644.91, hitherto and now carried as cash in the hands of the United States Treasurer, and accounted for as "unavailable," while other public depositaries are charged and the Treasurer is credited with the public moneys they have received and receipted for, as have these State depositaries, in the most formal manner.

Under the proposed law, accounts would be opened with the States holding these special deposits, in which they would be debited and the Treasurer credited with their respective holdings.

Section 2 provides an effective avoidance hereafter of the difficulties now existing, in the way of complete and speedy closure of accounts of the Government with various disbursing and other officers and persons having money transactions with it, and simply modifies a former provision of law passed at the instance of the Treasurer of the United States for the better settlement of his accounts. As it now stands, the law has created very great confusion and materially increased the labor of the Department without rendering the business as secure as it should be.

The original law is entirely correct and proper. But one provision of it was based upon the theory that the system of business in the Treasury Department was uniform, simple, and harmonious. This is not the fact, because the several additions to the Department were each created upon an independent basis of its own, and were not made to harmonize with the original organization as draughted by the first Secretary of the Treasury.

Great relief will be experienced in every accounting office by the process here provided for, and at the same time a greater degree of security to the Government from unjust and improper claims on account of business which should have been closed years ago.

There is nothing in this provision which authorizes the expenditure of money, nor is there in any provision of this act. The sole object is to simplify the system of business in the Department and to have the work done with the least labor, the greatest accuracy, and in the promptest manner.

Section 3. At present the Treasurer, at the proper time, draws money to meet the registered interest becoming due on the public debt, and retains that which is not called for, with lists of unpaid interest checks, under custody of clerks who attend to the business. This leaves him responsible for the unpaid money indefinitely. Any one having the lists of unpaid checks might arrange to have them cashed upon fraudulent power of attorney, without likelihood of detection. Section 3 provides a safeguard against this danger, by causing any moneys uncalled for during three years to be covered into the Treasury again by warrant. I suggest that it should be amended by striking out "three" in line 4, and inserting "two," which will give time enough to avoid any practical inconvenience. Claimants of interest unpaid for more than two years will be paid upon a statement of account and warrant, as now provided for the payment of other "outstanding liabilities."

Sections 4, 5, and 6 are designed to improve the present account keeping of the Treasury, and secure a more perfect and detailed history of the transactions to which they apply; their effect will be to make the same mandatory, and will make the books agree with the published statements, and prevent disagreement in future.

Section 4 should be amended by striking out "twenty-five," in line 3, and inserting "ten".

Section 7 provides for the correction of clerical mistakes of entry. It sometimes happens that moneys are covered into the Treasury to an erroneous source of revenue, and the effect of this section will be to secure correction, by the Secretary of the Treasury, without the necessity of legislation, which, for lack of such provision, at present obtains.

As already stated, the effect of this bill being enacted into a law will be to secure the important objects hereinbefore specified, without involving any additional expense to the Government, and all of the changes provided for by section 1 can be effected in a few days.

Herewith I return the letter of the honorable chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, with a copy of S. 2034, with interlineations, showing the amendments recommended hereinbefore stated.

Also transmit copy of Senate report 371, Forty-fourth Congress; Register's annual report for 1885; public-debt statement, etc.; Treasury document 818, Forty-ninth Congress, to which reference has been made herein.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. S. ROSECRANS,
Register.

Hon. DANIEL MANNING,
Secretary of the Treasury.

From this it will be seen that the reports of the Special Senate Committee in 1871-'72, and its Finance Committee in 1876, recommended that to be done which this bill provides for.

It should be added that Senator J. J. Ingalls several years ago introduced a bill embracing most of the provisions contained in this, concerning the importance of which, in all my intercourse with members of both Houses, I have never heard any but favorable opinions.

I trust your administration will have the honor, among other things, of accomplishing these important reforms.

The statutes require this office "to keep all accounts of receipts and expenditures of the public money and of all debts due to and from the United States." This last requirement drew my attention to the numerous balances appearing on our books, and dating almost from the origin of the Bureau. Under an order of the House of Representatives a call was made on the Secretary of the Treasury for a report of the balances due to and from the Government in all departments of the service, as required to be kept by this office.

His order for the preparation of this brought two facts into prominence:

(1) The Treasury Department has neglected to provide for obtaining and keeping any debtor and creditor account with any of the numerous disbursing agents under the orders of the War, Navy, Interior proper, and Post-Office Departments.

(2) A report, of 204 pages, containing the statement of balances due to and from the United States among all officers and agents acting under or in connection with all other Departments of the Government, and comprising 18,526 balances.

This report, printed by order of the House, showed balances apparently—

|                                                                         |                    |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------|
| Due to the United States.....                                           | $25, 809, 194. 40 |
| Due from the United States to sundry persons.....                       | 382, 104. 50       |
| Due from the United States, decedents, trust fund.....                  | 50, 080. 94        |
| Due from the United States, outstanding liabilities, act May 2, 1866... | 569, 408. 51       |
| Total.....                                                              | 1, 001, 593. 95    |

Soon there came a great demand from all parts of the country, and ere long the limited number of the edition which the House of Representatives ordered for the use of the Treasury Department became exhausted.

But the publication was fruitful in showing—

(1) That many persons had balances of accounts with several appropriations, some for and others against the Government, growing out of the lack of any accounting division charged with concentrating into a single final account all special ones with each person, from which the final status of such person's account could be ascertained and due notice thereof given.

(2) Many of the balances were unclosed because the vouchers and papers had been suspended, or shoved aside by other business, and, for lack of notice to the interested party, never called up by the accounting officers for action.

(3) Other balances were found where, through unexplained casualties, there was a failure duly to credit the party interested, and where, for lack of notice, he had failed to attend to it until the lapse of time was too great to admit of proper rectification.

Another item of book-keeping reform calls for your action. The law requires that the history of all purchases and titles to public lands acquired shall be kept in the office of Solicitor of the Treasury. But the accounts of the costs of the properties and of all improvements thereon are scattered amongst the records of every Department of the Government under the supervision of which the expenditures were made.

For business purposes, in the absence of any Department or Bureau specially charged with these expenditures, the Secretary could have this serious defect supplied by requiring the accounts to be made out and kept by a proper division in the Register's Office, where, under existing law, they ought to come as soon as provision can be made for it.

To prevent the manifold losses, injustices, and defects of the present lack of any provision for the determination and settlement of final balances in this Department; for making out and keeping a complete history of the costs of public buildings and grounds, I earnestly renew my recommendation of last year, that the honorable Secretary urgently commend to Congress the passage of an act of the tenor following, to wit:

"A BILL TO DETERMINE AND SETTLE FINAL BALANCES OF ACCOUNTS DUE TO AND FROM THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT, AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That there shall be a division in the office of the Register of the Treasury to be known as the "division of balances and settled accounts," in charge of a chief learned in the book and account keeping of the Treasury Department, who shall have two assistants, expert book-keepers, familiar with the duties and details of the Treasury accounts, and such other clerical force as may be necessary.

SEC. 2. That the Register, Sixth Auditor, and Second Comptroller of the Treasury shall prepare statements, with needful explanations, of all balances remaining due to and from the United States from the year seventeen hundred and eighty-nine to June thirtieth, eighteen hundred and eighty, as fully as the same appear upon the books of their respective offices, and file the same in said division as soon as practicable after the passage of this act; and thereafter annually, within ninety days after the close of each fiscal year, they shall file in said division like statements of balances on their books for that year, and therewith shall also transmit copies of the same to the Department of Justice, for its action. All such statements of balances, when received in said division under the supervision of the Register, shall be entered in ledgers properly arranged for that purpose. The Department of Justice, within ninety days after the end of each fiscal year, shall transmit to the Register a statement of what has been done as to these balances by that Department. After examination and comparison with the reports from the different Departments, the Register shall cause record to be made on the ledgers in said division against the balances of the results of the suits, compromises, and settlements which have been made.

SEC. 3. That whenever such balances are closed by settlements made by the accounting officers of the Treasury Department, they shall be reported to the Register, to enable him to have the balances closed on the books of said division; and where suits have been instituted, or hereafter shall be brought, to recover such balances, the Comptrollers of the Treasury, the Commissioner of Customs, and the Department of Justice shall notify the Register thereof, so that he can cause proper memoranda to be made concerning the same on the books in said division; and said books shall at all times exhibit the condition of each of said balances. The Comptrollers of the Treasury and the Commissioner of Customs shall have the authority, in the exercise of sound discretionary judgment, to cause any of such balances to be closed upon submitting a schedule, with report of reasons, to the Secretary of the Treasury, and receiving his approval, and shall carry the same to the profit and loss accounts; and, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, they may compromise any such balances, and file reports thereof in said division for credit entries.

SEC. 4. That when statements of balances are filed and entered in the books of said division, it shall be the duty of the Register to have notices prepared, and sent to all disbursing officers, collectors of the revenues, receivers of the public moneys, and others, of the balances remaining due by or to them, and on what account. He shall confer and advise with the Comptrollers of the Treasury, Commissioner of Customs, and Department of Justice, and furnish them such information and assistance at his command as may be conducive to the adjustment, collection, and settlement of the balances remaining on the books in his office. He shall transmit annually to Congress, on or before the second Monday in December, a statement from the books in that division showing all new balances, and noting those in suit, those that have gone to judgment, and those that have been compromised.

SEC. 5. That all accounts of the costs and expenses of all public buildings and grounds belonging to the United States, after being entered in the Departments as now provided by law, shall be transmitted to said division, where records shall be made so as to show the cost of each building, light-house, fort, and piece of ground belonging to the Government, and its disposition if sold.

SEC. 6. That the chief of said division shall be entitled to a salary of three thousand dollars a year, and the assistants to a salary of two thousand five hundred dollars a year each.

SEC. 7. That for the purpose of paying the salaries of the chief and the assistants of said division, and carrying into effect the provisions of this act, the sum of twenty thousand dollars is hereby appropriated out of any unappropriated money in the Treasury."

ACCOUNTS OF POST-OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

It seems indispensable again to call attention to the anomaly in our system of account keeping in the Post-Office Department, which, under the provisions of section 236, United States Revised Statutes, comes under the scrutiny of the Secretary of the Treasury.

(1) Of all the vast postal revenues, amounting to upwards of $50,000,000, none is paid into the Treasury, under a system of accounting which requires all receipts and expenditures to be made by warrant. How can this anomaly be reconciled with existing requirements? Such reconciliation, or the repeal of such requirements of law and regulation, seem imperative.

(2) The present movement of money of the Post-Office Department, outgoing and incoming, is over $100,000,000, and constantly increasing. It amounts to nearly one-fifth of the Treasury business, and yet there is but one accounting officer responsible for the supervision of the entire business, while there are five Auditors and substantially four Comptrollers to supervise the rest of the business.

It would seem that good account-keeping and good business methods demand this to be remedied.

PRESERVATION OF FILES.

It has been brought to the Department's attention in each Annual Report since I have been Register, that our means of performing this duty are wholly inadequate to the necessities of the service. I renew this statement, with, if possible, increased emphasis.

Our rooms for storing files are twelve in number, six in the basement and six in the attic of the building. Of the six in the basement, three open on the south and three into the west hall of that floor. They contain 13,287 square feet of floor space, and 159,056 cubic feet of volume, and are filled with one hundred and eleven file cases, occupying 3,321 square feet of floor and 38,184 cubic feet of space.

The other six file rooms, if halls deserve to be included as rooms, are on the southwest quarter of the attic floor, and contain 6,665 square feet of floor, 52,379 cubic feet of volume, and pine-board shelving, called file-cases, numbering ninety, standing on 2,656 square feet of floor, and having 21,634 cubic feet of volume. All of these are full or waiting to be filled with files already on hand.

The only room, in all the twelve, that is fit for a Files-room, offering any reasonable security against fire, dust, dirt, and vermin, is Files-room A on the basement floor, wherein the cases are of iron with iron shelving, and doors of the same material. But it contains only 23 cases out of 201 at the disposal of this Bureau.

Having made a special report on this matter to the committee recently appointed by the Secretary, I will only add to what is said above, that in all the 178 file-cases outside of File-room A, not one offers any of the guaranties for safe keeping of files demanded by the commonest dictates of business applicable to the archives of a great Government.

I therefore renew my recommendations made in previous reports:

(1) That the present files be examined and separated into those "likely" and those "unlikely" to be called for; that the latter be catalogued and divided into those which may be destroyed and which may be boxed and stored for further orders.

(2) That those "likely to be called for" be put into sheet-metal cases and file boxes, arranged and catalogued by each Bureau, so as to secure the greatest ease and certainty of reference.

(3) That steps be taken for timely provision for future file-rooms, of a character suitable to meet speedily coming demands of the Department Service.

MONTHLY DEBT STATEMENT.

In the last annual report from this office it was stated that "since the Register's is the office of final record of all receipts and expenditures of the Government, it ought to be required to make the Monthly Debt Statement." The reasons given are, that being by law the final account keeper of the Government, necessarily having the material therefor, accuracy would be secured, apparently or really, discrepant Public Debt Statements avoided, and the necessity for explanations of such discrepancies to the inquiring business public, as has hitherto happened, would be removed.

This, appearing to be an improvement in our account-keeping methods, tending towards increased security in accuracy and unity of responsibility, is again brought to the honorable Secretary's notice.

It is also respectfully submitted that much needless duplication of work and some expense could be saved by assigning portions of the work in the divisions of the Secretary's Office to the Register's Bureau, with an increased efficiency and unity of responsibility.

The operations in the Register's Office for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1887, have been carried on by the Division of Receipts and Expenditures; the Division of Loans; the Division of Notes, Coupons, and Currency, and the Special Division of Interest, Premiums, and Expenses of the Public Debt.

The expenses of the Bureau appear in the table following, showing the annual appropriations and expenditures for the years 1884, 1885, 1886, and 1887, in the last columns of which it appears that the total appropriation for the last fiscal year was $141,677.94, and the total expenditure for the year $139,094.55.

In 1884, and until October 1, 1885, the Currency Division was not under this head. On October 1, 1885, this division was consolidated with the Division of Notes and Coupons, constituting what is now known as the Division of Notes, Coupons, and Currency.

Employés in the Tonnage Division were paid from the appropriation for the Register's Office to June 30, 1885, inclusive, although they had been transferred to the Bureau of Navigation, which was constituted by act of July 5, 1884.

The Division of Interest and Expenses on Loans was constituted by order of the Secretary dated January 4, 1886.

In the above table, clerks detailed from other Bureaus to the Register's office are not included, nor is time taken in excess of leave.

DIVISION OF RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES.

This division had during the year 41.77 employés, and has—

(1) To keep account of all receipts and expenditures of public moneys and of debts due to and from the United States.

(2) To receive from the Commissioner of Customs and First Comptroller of the Treasury the accounts which shall have been finally adjusted, with their vouchers, certificates, etc., and to preserve the same.

(3) To record all warrants for receipt of moneys into or payments from the Treasury and to certify the same thereon, except those drawn by the Postmaster-General and those drawn by the Secretary of the Treasury upon requisitions of the Secretaries of War, the Interior (proper), and of the Navy.

(4) To transmit to the Treasury copies of the certificates of balances of accounts adjusted.

(5) To furnish to the proper accounting officers copies of all warrants covering proceeds of Government property where the same may be necessary in the settlement of accounts in their respective offices.

To this volume of current work in this division has been added the following:

SPECIAL WORK.

(1) A general "Receipt Ledger" giving under appropriate heads the receipts from all sources into the Treasury for every year from 1789 to June 30, 1886, has been finished.

(2) A similarly arranged "Expenditure Ledger" has been nearly completed. The making of these ledgers has led to much research and labor, but they will more than compensate for the time expended for the invaluable facilities they will afford in future investigations of the receipts and disbursements of the public revenue, by furnishing easy references.

(3) Indexing by names and appropriations of the old ledgers without indices has progressed, several volumes having been completed and others under way. It is incomprehensible how this very necessary matter should have been neglected as the ledgers were being filled with entries.

(4) The "Receipts and Expenditures" for the year 1885 will be finished and ready for transmittal by the meeting of Congress, and that for 1886 is well under way, much of it being now completed. This important work was five years behind when the present chief took charge of the division, the last volume then published being for 1880.

(5) Much time and labor has been expended during the year on the work of examining and correcting the old unbalanced accounts, some of them reaching back to the early history of the Government, which arose in many instances from clerical errors, omissions, misdirections on pay and covering warrants, carelessness in transmitting papers from one office to another, etc.

Information in detail of the receipts from all sources, the expenditures by appropriations, the condition of the public debt, and other statements appertaining to the financial transactions and accounts of the Government, required to be published by the Register, which were prepared in this division, will be found in the appendix. (See pages 713 to 877, inclusive.)

THE DIVISION OF LOANS.

This division, with 16.89 employes actually at work and a pay-roll of $23,469.87, has the custody and registration of issues and redemptions of all bonds and evidences of public debt, the custody of blank bonds and certificates, and the preparation of interest, dividend, and coupon-bond schedules.

Its comparative cost for the past and preceding fiscal year is shown below :

| Years.         | Number of employes. | Amount of pay-roll. |
|----------------|---------------------|---------------------|
| 1886-'87 ..... | 16. 89              | $23, 469. 87       |

* 12. 7 per cent.

† 13. 8 per cent.

Its current work is summarized in the following tabular statements with appended explanatory notes.

An impression of the magnitude of the operations of this division in the past may be formed by considering the following statement of the number of volumes of record on hand:

Of the entire $893,493,312 only $11,001,800, a little over 1.23 per cent., is held abroad.

There are about 48,708 individual and trustee holders, representing $405,576,062, or an average of $8,327 each.

The number of accounts for all holders of United States registered bonds is about 52,500, and for holders of the District of Columbia 3.65's and 5 per cent. issue of 1879 is about 500.

The items of work, so far as it has been found possible to state them in tabular form, are shown in the accompanying statement marked E, but a large amount of work requiring 590 days, and which amounted to about one-eighth of the whole time, did not come under any heading of the classification adopted; nor does it seem possible to adopt one which will cover the many contingencies constantly arising.

The reduction in force from the preceding year (which was about 12½ per cent.), together with the large increase in the current transactions of the office, has required that the whole time of the division be devoted to its regular work, and has given very little opportunity for special duties. The most important of these special undertakings has been a report on the methods of business and work in the division, as requested by the Senate Select Committee, of which Senator Cockrell is chairman, and which was called for by the Secretary under date of March 26, 1887.

The report was intended to give a minute record of the workings of the division, with full statistical details of its transactions from July 1, 1883, to February 28, 1887, inclusive.

The publication of the large report on the payments made under various French spoliation treaties, which was prepared during the previous year, required the reading of the proof of the extensive statistical tables of which it was mainly composed.

THE NOTE, COUPON, AND CURRENCY DIVISION.

The division has the record and custody of all redeemed, exchanged, and transferred coupon bonds, redeemed interest checks, coupons, notes, fractional currency, gold and silver certificates, and other redeemed evidences of the public debt.

The following statement shows the force employed in the division and its cost for the last two fiscal years :

| Years.        | No. of employés. | Amount of pay-roll. |
|---------------|------------------|---------------------|
| 1886-'87..... | 37. 26           | $40, 671. 22       |
| 1885-'86..... | 49. 19           | 53, 064. 85         |
| Decrease..... | *11. 93          | †12, 393. 63        |

* 24.25 per cent.

† 23.35 per cent.

The details of this division's work for the last fiscal year are explained and summarized in the following statement and annexed tables.

From these it will be seen that much labor was bestowed in rectifying and perfecting the records of preceding years, work essential to assure speed and accuracy of reference to the papers on file, when required in the transaction of business involving them. The force employed was reduced nearly 25 per cent., while the amount of current work, though somewhat diminished as to coupons and interest checks, and increased by renewed activity in redemptions of coin certificates, fell off by no means to an equal extent.

The annexed tables show the details of this work.

The work other than current proves to be a large and important addition; but notwithstanding this fact, the current work of the year was done promptly and satisfactorily.

This division has also furnished, during the year, detailed assistance to other divisions of the Department, amounting to 368½ days.

There was a decrease in the current receipts of this as compared with last year, except in that of redeemed currency, silver and gold certificates, which were increased by 3,630,860 notes, and also an increase in the number of redeemed, detached coupons scheduled, of 2,254,024.

Many errors were found and corrected. Many vouchers which should be on file are missing; some of them can perhaps be accounted for as having been withdrawn by other divisions of the Department for reference.

This work was continued from last year, and where there was at one time confusion, and where many errors existed we now have system, order, and ease of reference in the files and records.

It will require perhaps the next fiscal year to complete this work. The remaining files to be overhauled, examined, tied into 100's and 1,000's, and labeled, are the gold certificates, temporary loan, and 7.30 notes.

A comparative statement of work performed in the division during the fiscal years ended June 30, 1886, and June 30, 1887, showing the increase and decrease of work in the several departments of the division, is given below :

DIVISION OF INTEREST AND EXPENSES OF LOANS.

This is a special division organized by the Department's letter of January 4, 1886, for a much needed special investigation.

The following statement shows the organization appropriated for, and the actual expenditure during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1887.

The appropriation is for :

|                                      |         |
|--------------------------------------|---------|
| 1 chief.....                         | $2,000 |
| 1 clerk, class 4.....                | 1,800   |
| 1 clerk, class 2.....                | 1,400   |
| 2 clerks, class 1.....               | 1,200   |
| 1 messenger, at.....                 | 660     |
| Total, per annum, appropriation..... | 8,260   |

The following shows the number actually employed during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1887, and the year preceding:

|                                       | Number ofemployés. | Amount ofpay-roll. |
|---------------------------------------|------------------------|------------------------|
| 1886-'87 .....                        | 4.73                   | $6,745.65             |
| From January 4 to June 30, 1886 ..... | 1.27                   | 2,047.22               |
| Increase .....                        | 3.46                   | 4,698.43               |

The delay last year in beginning work was one hundred days, waiting for provision of needful room for desks and material for the clerical work.

The results of the work being a necessary part of the history of the public debt, to be kept in this office, and other reasons, brought its operations under this office, but it is not a part of our organization, and was not therefore called upon for report under the special Senate committee's last request.

But it will be proper to say that after the issuance of the order for the work, one hundred days elapsed before the room for its work was ready, so that it began about the 1st of May, 1886.

Since that time its extremely moderate force has been drawn upon most in the Secretary's and Treasurer's offices, taking Messrs. Caron and Manson away for many weeks.

Nevertheless, decided progress has been made, in spite of the intricacies of the investigation due to the neglect to classify the interest payments according to loans under which they accrued in all except two or three small loans until 1871, all entries of payment having been made under one general account, entitled "Interest on the Public Debt." All the heavy interest payments on the great war loans had thus been treated.

Out of this grew disregard of the classes of interest payment in the settlement of accounts, and confusion in the statement of accounts of coupon payments stated by the First Auditor's and First Comptroller's offices. A like confusion was found to exist in the case of covering warrants, bringing into the Treasury interest accrued on bonds after printing and before issuance. In 1867, the faces of these warrants were inaccurate and misleading, to the extent of over five millions of dollars in the amount of $6,681,805.53. Interest payments on loans have been so mixed that in the case of two they have not found data of record sufficient to separate them. Commissions have been charged to interest and premiums; interest and commissions have been charged to profits on purchases of bonds at a discount; premium has been taken up as accrued interest; accrued interest deducted from discount, where sales were so made; coin and currency payments intermingled, etc.

These are samples of what make persistent and careful labor indispensable in the operations of this division, and render difficult a tabular or numerical statement of results.

But it may be said that in the course of careful research demanded, it was impracticable to employ the full force of clerks, but now the way seems clearer to unobstructed progress, and the evidences of success are gratifying.

In closing this report of this last year's work, it is a pleasure to say to you that the employés of this Bureau have displayed a cheerful, spirited devotion to duty, worthy of high commendation.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. S. ROSECRANS,
Register.

Hon. CHARLES S. FAIRCHILD,
Secretary of the Treasury.
